Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 14 .- "The next time you or any one else ever gets me on one of these blankety-blank animals, I hope that some guy takes my favorate bat and wallops me between the grandstand and the bleachers," said "Germany" Schaefer, when he arrived at 6 o'clock at the Park Hotel, after an all day's experience on the Hot Springs mountain riding a stubborn Mexican burro.

"Germany," Wid Conroy, who joined the Washington squad here to-day, and "Dixie" Walker, fell victims to a frameup by Captain McBride.

When they stopped at Happy Hollow, a pleasure resort, on their second day's mountain climbing, Captain McBride was the first to note the little burro. The animals are hired for the convenience of visitors who desire to reach the top will long be remembered. of the mountain without walking.

RAILROADERS WELL EQUIPPED.

Physical Department Popular Union Station Y. M. C. A.

Last October the Terminal Railroad V. M. C. A. situated in the east wing of the Union Station, added a physical department to the other branches of its work The need for physical work among the men had been felt for some time, so the large, airy gymnasium in the west wing of the station was furnished with new aparatus parallel bars, horizontal bars, traveling rings, chest weights flying rings, punching bags, &c. A physical director was engaged and classes started

The interest shown by the men has steadily increased. The classes, averaging but two or three at first, have so increased that the attendance at classes will average between eight and ten, while the weekly use of the gymnasium will -total between 75 and 700.

Beside the regular classes, individual venient for the men. During the coming spring months the various baseball teams will find the gymnasium a convenient place to prepare for the season's work.

MEET AGGIES TO-NIGHT.

Georgetown Basket-ball Team Expects Lively Battle. Georgetown's 'varsity basket-hall quint, after three days' practice, are in the best condition for the game to-night with the Maryland Agricultural College five at the Arcade.

The Maryland Aggies have been going at a lively clip of late, and their recent game with the strong Washington and Lee University team, in which they held the Southerners to the close score of 30 to 25, stamps them as one of the leading teams in this section. The Hilltoppers are not the least discouraged over the defeat they sustained at the hands of the Navy last Saturday and have been working with renewed vigor, so that they will be in the pink of condition for the games this week with the Maryland Aggies, Virginia, and

CLAIMS SECOND PLACE HONORS

Gallaudet Basket-ball Team Soon to Wind Up Season.

Kendall Green Collegians Tackle Baltimore Medicos Saturday in the Monumental City.

Manager Ted Hughes, of the Gallaudet College basket-ball quint, announced that since he has heard nothing from the Catholic University five in regard to the third game to settle the claim for second place in the District intercollegiate basket-ball championship, which went to the strong Georgetown University team, and as he could not get St. John's College, of Annapolis, for a return game at Kendall Green on February 25, owing to the ca-'dets' full schedule Mount St. Joseph's College quint, of Baltimore, has consented to play at the Gallaudet gymnasium February 25 instead of March 4.

This change meets with approval of the Kendall Green adherents, as the basketball season would close at a proper time and that would permit preliminary steps to be taken for outdoor baseball practice soon after. At the same time Gallaudet claims the second place in the District intercollegoate basket-ball by her superior score, as well as by default. The Buff and Blue goal tossers will have their hands full Saturday night when they line up against Baltimore Medical College in the Monumental City, and Coach Birck and Capt, Arras are leaving no stones unturned to decide upon the best combination. ELBERFELD OFF FOR HOT SPRINGS TRAINING

Norman Elberfeld, the Nationals' great little third baseman, left Washington last night for Virginia Hot Springs, where the will remain until the time comes to join the Nationals in Atlanta the first week in March.

Elberfeld believes that Virginia Hot Springs is about the best place in the world in which to build up ones' constitution, and, strange to relate, the "Kid" always loses flesh during the offseason. When seen last hight he said: "I could go out to-morrow and play baseball with any of them, but in order for me to get in the best of shape I must take on weight, and the only way I can do so is to seek a complete change. My work at Hot Springs will consist mostly in long outdoor walks, plenty of sleep, and plenty of tissue-building food. Three weeks of this life will put me in 'the pink,' and I will be able to hold up my own with any of them when I hit Atlanta."

Much honor has been done to the inentors of the first catcher's mask, glove, fielder's mit, &c., yet it seems that baseball scientists, in their researches, have failed to mention the originator of the pitcher's toe plate. While with the Providence team in 1882, one of Richmond's team mates was Jerry Denny, an infielder, whose real trade was that of plumber and metal worker. At that time pitchers were toe plates of leather, which vere of not much advantage. Then the nventive genius of aforementioned Denny came to the fore and he constructed a be plate of brass, fitted and attached it to Radbourne's shoe, the famous hurler being at that time with Providence, and thus was the first brass toe plate brought
